

Family First Prevention Act Training

The Family First Prevention Act will dramatically change the federal funding priorities for child welfare. There will be a host of new requirements and some new opportunities in the areas of prevention and older youth. There is more of a push toward evidence based programs. With all the changes, everyone understandably has plenty of questions. PCYA would like to invite you to come get an overview of Family First and hear the latest of where Pennsylvania is at regarding implementation.

The Office of Children, Youth, and Families has graciously agreed to present for us and to answer what questions they can. This training is open to commissioners, CYA agencies, providers, and others interested in learning more about Family First and where Pennsylvania is at regarding implementation and implications moving forward. There will be an overview of the provisions of Family First from 9am to 1pm, with a one hour lunch break on your own. From 1pm to 3pm, there will be discussion groups for providers and county staff for those who want to participate.

Please join us in person or via webinar. There is no cost for attendance, but space is limited. You must register in order to attend, as we anticipate that all space will be filled.
